
IRB Lleida quality policy

Quality policy and good scientific practices of the Lleida Institute for Biomedical (IRB Lleida) has been and will always agree with satisfy the expectations and research needs of our researchers, health and social needs, offering them quality services, looking for improving continuous and aspiring to excellence in service.

The establishment and maintenance of our system of management of quality and good scientific practice. It guarantees the fulfillment of this objective, which includes the following principles:

- Researchers at IRB Lleida, in the development of its research activities, undertake to respect the laws, rules and conventions that regulate and ensure that these are known by all his team including researchers in training and fellows. The Institute shall apply at all times adequate systems to verify compliance with these legal provisions and international conventions and agreements in the field of R+D.
- IRB Lleida funding agencies will provide the guarantee that the resources allocated in this Center will be used as efficiently as possible, compliance, also the ethical postulates.
- Before the scientific community the Institute ensures that always communicate the results to avoid unnecessary repetition, regardless of what the outcome, and prevent fraud in the conduct of the research process and in its communication or subsequent publication in scientific circles.
- The Institute ensures the population research resources will always have the best use and that their rights as patients will be protected.

The direction of IRB Lleida undertakes to:

- Establish the policy and quality objectives.
- The quality policy and good practice scientific inform all staff of the Centre and the recipients of our service.
- Manage the resources of the Centre to provide the infrastructure necessary to achieve the goals of quality and good practice.
- Review the quality policy and good practice scientific Center to adapt to the changes that occur in our research, health and social environment.

Throughout the Organization of the Centre in general and the direction in particular, assumes the responsibility to participate actively in the development and improvement of the quality policy and good practice, assuming it as a factor in value by the Institute and facilitator for the implementation of the mission that we have entrusted.